THE CITY MAP

SEVILLE

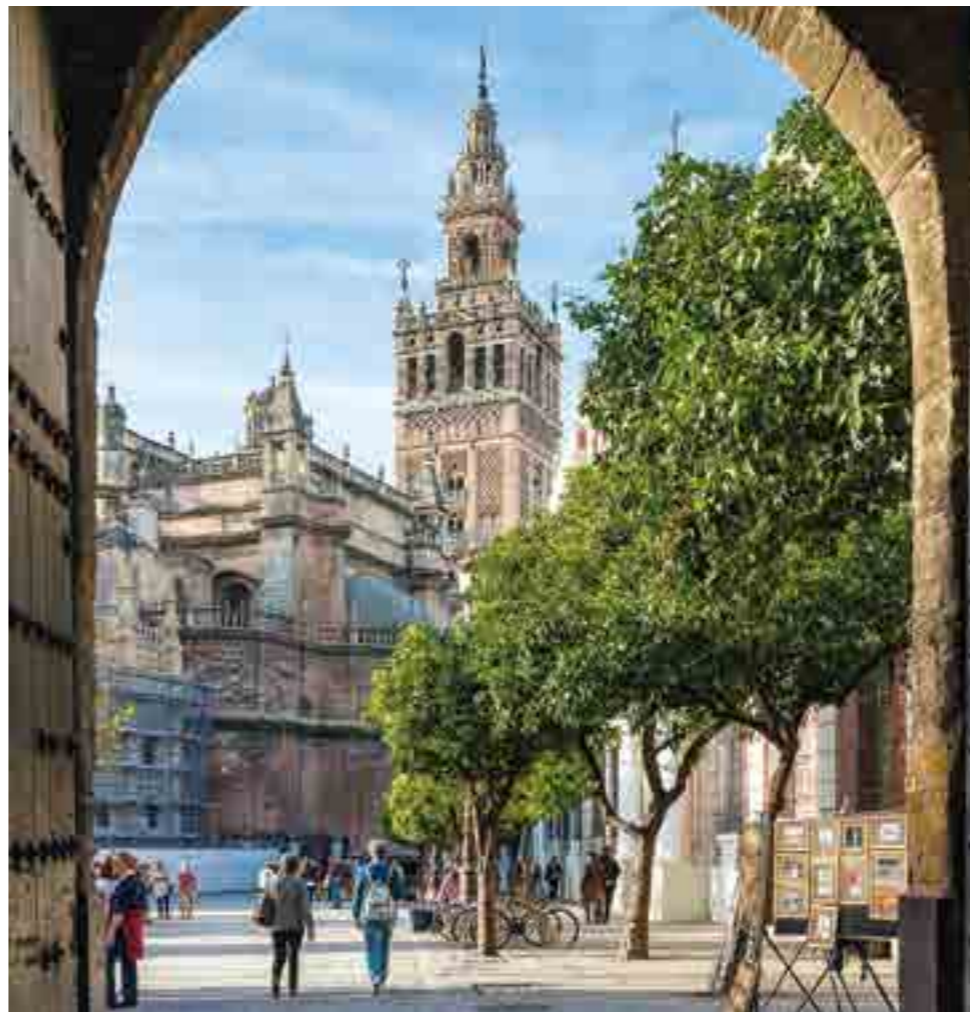

Seville is an important tourist destination in southern Europe. Located in the southwest of the Iberian Peninsula with a population of about 700,000 inhabitants, it is the capital of the autonomous community of Andalusia.

The Guadalquivir river gave rise to the city and its rich history. Over 3,000 years, different civilizations (including Phoenicians, Romans, Visigoths, and Arabs) chose to settle in an extraordinarily fertile territory between the marshes and the river delta, just 80 km from the Atlantic Ocean.

The city's rich historical and artistic heritage is a result of the passage of these different cultures. Seville has three monuments declared as World Heritage Sites by UNESCO (the Cathedral and Giralda, the Alcázar and the Archive of the Indias (Archivo de Indias) and countless beautiful and unique civil and religious buildings, which contain numerous works of art by outstanding architects, sculptors and painters.

With an intense cultural life throughout the year, Seville caters to all tastes: opera, flamenco, classical music, jazz, zarzuela, rock, hip-hop, pop, exhibitions, theatre, cinema, comics ... Seville is the birthplace and capital of flamenco, declared Intangible Heritage of Humanity, and is also the city that has inspired the greatest number of operas over the centuries: 150 compositions, some of them as universal as Carmen, Don Giovanni and The Barber of Seville.

Gastronomy is another of Seville's main attractions. With a long and rich tradition, the offering is very wide and varied, with bars and restaurants offering everything from traditional recipes to more innovative dishes.

Seville enjoys an excellent climate and the average annual temperature is between 18°C and 20°C. The city has a high number of hours of sunshine annually (about 3,000), which allows visitors to take part in numerous outdoor activities throughout the year.

In addition, Seville is a universal city which has played its part at crucial historical milestones such as the conquest and colonization of America and the first circumnavigation of the world.

Great artists have been born in Seville, including Velázquez, Murillo, Gustavo Adolfo Bécquer, Luis Cernuda, the Machado brothers and Joaquín Turina. Many others came to our city from other places, attracted to this major centre of art and culture, including Miguel de Cervantes, Torrigiano, Zurbarán, Martínez Montañés and Juan de Mesa.

But as well as keeping alive its rich historical legacy, Seville is also looking to the future and evolving: the modern architecture which is a legacy of Expo 92, "Las Setas" on the Plaza de la Encarnación, the Palacio de Congresos y Exposiciones conference and exhibition centre, the network of bike lanes...

GETTING TO SEVILLE

SEVILLE AS / THE DOOR OF ANDALUCÍA

By plane: San Pablo International Airport is only 10 km from the city centre. It is connected to the main European cities by direct flights (London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Berlin, Munich ...) and has good connections with other airports for long-haul flights (Frankfurt, Geneva, Amsterdam, ...).

www.aena.es/es/aeropuerto-sevilla

By train: The high-speed train (AVE) links Seville with many Spanish cities. Destinations include:

Madrid: duration 2 hours 30 minutes

Cordoba: duration 40 minutes

Malaga: duration 1 hour 55 minutes

Barcelona: duration 5 hours 35 minutes

The Sevilla-Santa Justa station is Spain's third largest in terms of number of travellers, after Madrid-Atocha and Barcelona-Sants, with an average of 13 million passengers each year. Santa Justa is the backbone of the business and professional dynamism of the Andalusian capital and is situated very close to the historical centre.

RENFE, the national rail network, offers an exclusive deal for international tourists: a train pass called RENFE SPAIN PASS which allows convenient, lower cost train travel throughout Spain. www.renfe.com

By road: Seville is very well connected by motorways and main roads.

Huelva: 100 kms. (A-49)

Cádiz: 120 kms. (AP-4)

Jerez: 85 kms. (AP-4)

Córdoba: 140 kms. (A4)

Málaga: 205 kms. (A-92)

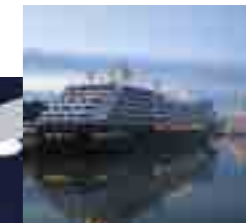

Granada: 250 kms. (A-92)

Madrid: 530 kms. (A4)

By bus: Seville has two bus stations very well located in the city centre: Plaza de Armas (for destinations including Cordoba, Malaga, Granada ...) and Prado de San Sebastián (for Cadiz and the Cadiz coast ...).

In addition, Seville and the 105 municipalities of its province are connected through a network of intercity buses

By the Guadalquivir River: . The Port of Seville is an inland seaport located in the Guadalquivir estuary. From the river's mouth at the Atlantic Ocean, in the town of Sanlúcar de Barrameda (Cadiz), after a journey of 90 km and about 5 hours of navigation, you arrive at the capital's port facilities, accessed through the lock which is unique in Spain.

Boats including yachts and other pleasure craft can dock at sports clubs, such as Club Náutico de Sevilla, within the city, with more than 100 berths (www.nauticosevilla.es); Marina Sevilla (www.marinasevilla.com) or Puerto Gelves, located 3.5 km from Seville (www.puertogelves.com).

CITY TRANSPORT

ALONG ITS

Seville is easily accessible on foot as the city is very flat. We highly recommend walking around the streets to enjoy and absorb its beauty.

The city's public transport options are:

Taxi: Seville has a large fleet of taxis: 2,000 taxis operating 365 days a year.

Taxi company telephone numbers: 954580000 / 954622222 / 954675555

Special Taxis for people with disabilities: 954476060.

Buses: Seville's municipal public transport company (TUSSAM) has a network of 43 routes during the daytime and 9 routes at night. You can see the timetables and routes at www.tussam.es

Tram: Linking the San Bernardo zone (the shopping and hotel district) with the Plaza Nueva (City Hall), with five stops along the way. www.tussam.es

For both the bus and tram there is a multi-trip card with minimum top-ups, with which each trip is cheaper.

These cards are bought and topped-up in estancos and kiosks, and can also be topped-up at the ticket machines at tram stops (Archive of the Indias (Archivo de Indias), Plaza Nueva, Prado de San Sebastián, Puerta Jerez and San Bernardo).

To travel around Seville, you can also buy a tourist card for 1 day or 3 days. Unlimited travel during its validity period. These can be bought from TUSSAM information points located in:

Prado de San Sebastián (next to the Metrocentro stop).
Opening hours: Monday to Friday from 8:00 to 20:00.

Plaza Ponce de León. Opening Hours: Monday to Friday from 9:00 to 14:00 / 17:00 to 19:15.

Metro: Line 1 connects the Aljarafe and Dos Hermanas with the centre of Seville (Puerta de Jerez Station and Prado de San Sebastián). www.metro-sevilla.es

Local trains: RENFE has a local train service for comfortable travel to different parts of the city (lines C1, C2, C3, C4 and C5). www.renfe.com

Bicycle: Seville has one of the most extensive bike path networks in Europe (142 km.) It connects the city centre with most parts of the city. Seville is an ideal city to explore by bicycle thanks to its good climate and because it's relatively flat. Bicycles are ideal for visiting the city and for everyday life.

There are numerous private bike rental companies as well as the public hire service "Sevici" with 2,500 bicycles distributed across 250 parking areas www.sevici.es

WHAT TO VISIT

A CULTURAL / AND ARTISTIC MOSAIC

If you like culture, history and art, Seville is your city. Seville has a rich historical-artistic legacy as a result of the different civilizations that settled in our city (Phoenicians, Romans, Visigoths, Arabs) and the different artistic currents that came from other countries (Gothic, Renaissance, Baroque...).

There are many interesting places to visit, but here are those we recommend that you should not miss during your stay in Seville.

Zone 1: World Heritage monuments, Santa Cruz and San Bartolomé

Zone 2: Central Zone

Zone 3: Plaza de la Encarnación - Macarena District

Zone 4: Alameda- San Lorenzo District

Zone 5: María Luisa Park and Plaza de España

Zone 6: Arenal District

Zone 7: Triana District

Zone 8: Cartuja Island

WORLD HERITAGE MONUMENTS, SANTA CRUZ AND SAN BARTOLOMÉ

/ ZONE 1

We recommend visits to the three monuments declared World Heritage Sites by UNESCO in 1987: the Cathedral and Giralda, the Alcázar and the Archive of the Indias (Archivo de Indias).

The Catedral de Santa María de la Sede is the largest Gothic church in the world and the third largest church after St Peter's in the Vatican and St Paul's in London. Built on the site of the main Almohad mosque, work began in the fifteenth century. Remains of the old mosque are still preserved including the Giralda, its minaret, which is the symbol of the city, and the Patio de los Naranjos, the courtyard where ritual ablutions were performed.

Some of the leading artists of the time worked in the Cathedral and during its construction Renaissance, Baroque and Neoclassical elements were added. Its numerous chapels contain magnificent works of art, such as paintings by Murillo, Goya and Zurbarán; sculptures by Martínez Montañés, Juan de Mesa and Alonso Cano; works in precious metals including the urn of Rey San Fernando, made by Juan Laureano de Pina and beautiful stained glass.

Highlights are the magnificent Retablo Mayor altarpiece, designed by the Flemish sculptor Pierre Dancart in 1482 and considered Christianity's best altarpiece; the Sacristía de los Cálices, where you can admire the Goya painting Santa Justa y Santa Rufina; the Sacristía Mayor, built in Renaissance style where the processional monstrance by Juan de Arfe can be found; and the Sala Capitular, with beautiful paintings by Murillo.

Several medieval kings are buried in the Capilla Real (Royal Chapel), including Ferdinand III, conqueror and patron of the city; Pedro I of Castile and his wife María de Padilla, and Alfonso X the Wise. In addition, you can see the tomb of Christopher Columbus.

From the Giralda you can enjoy the best views of the city. Another interesting visit is to the church roofs, for which it is necessary to book in advance.

The Real Alcázar is the oldest royal palace in use in Europe. It remains a royal residence and is where Spain's royal family stay when visiting Seville. It is a group of palaces built in different historical eras whose origins date back to the tenth century. King Pedro I of Castile played a fundamental role in its history by ordering the construction of the Mudéjar palace, the main building. In addition to its beautiful rooms, you can stroll through its beautiful gardens, the second largest the city. Numerous films and series have been shot in the Alcázar, including Lawrence of Arabia, The Kingdom of Heaven and the famous series Game of Thrones.

The Archive of the Indias (Archivo de Indias) is one of the most important historical archives in the country, holding 43,000 documents and files. It was created in 1785 by King Carlos III. Set in a beautiful Renaissance building, within its walls are saved documents related to the discovery and colonization of America. During the year, numerous exhibitions are organized related to the presence of Spain in America.

Santa Cruz District and San Bartolomé District.

These two neighbourhoods make up the city's old Jewish quarter. To wander through its streets full of legends is a great pleasure. In addition to beautiful hidden corners, you'll find lovely squares such as the Plaza de Doña Elvira, the Plaza de la Alianza and the Plaza de Santa Cruz, where Seville's famous painter Bartolomé Esteban Murillo is buried.

Los Venerables Hospital (Hospital de los Venerables) and Diego Velázquez Centre.

Founded in 1675 by Canon Don Justino de Neve, today this is the headquarters of the Fundación Focus. It has a beautiful central courtyard and its church contains paintings by Valdés Leal and Lucas Valdés. This beautiful building is also home to the Diego Velázquez Centre, where his works and those of his contemporaries are displayed.

Pilate's House (Casa de Pilatos).

The residence of the Dukes of Medinaceli and Alcalá, this sumptuous palace complex was built by Fadrique Enríquez de Ribera on his return from a trip to Jerusalem in 1519. Of particular note among the many constructive elements that were imported from Genoa are the entrance facade and the main courtyard's columns and fountain. It contains beautiful panels of tiles made in the sixteenth century.

Roman columns.

Where Aire street and Mármoles street meet, there are three famous Roman columns that apparently belonged to a temple of the second century CE, built under Hadrian or his successor Antoninus Pius.

Interpretation centre of the Jewish quarter

The purpose of this centre is to continue the memory of the Sephardic people of Seville. It has a permanent exhibition with interesting content and also reveals the legends of the people and places of the Sevillian Jewish quarter.

Casa de Salinas: this is a sixteenth century palatial house built under the Renaissance influence that Sevilla experienced at a time when it was an important metropolis in commercial trade with America. Wealthy families owned the Casa de Salinas, the first of which was of the Jaén Roelas lineage. In the mid nineteenth century the birth right ended and the house passed through several hands. It was a school, including a boarding house and a masonic lodge formed by important noble and aristocratic families of Seville.

Murillo Gardens

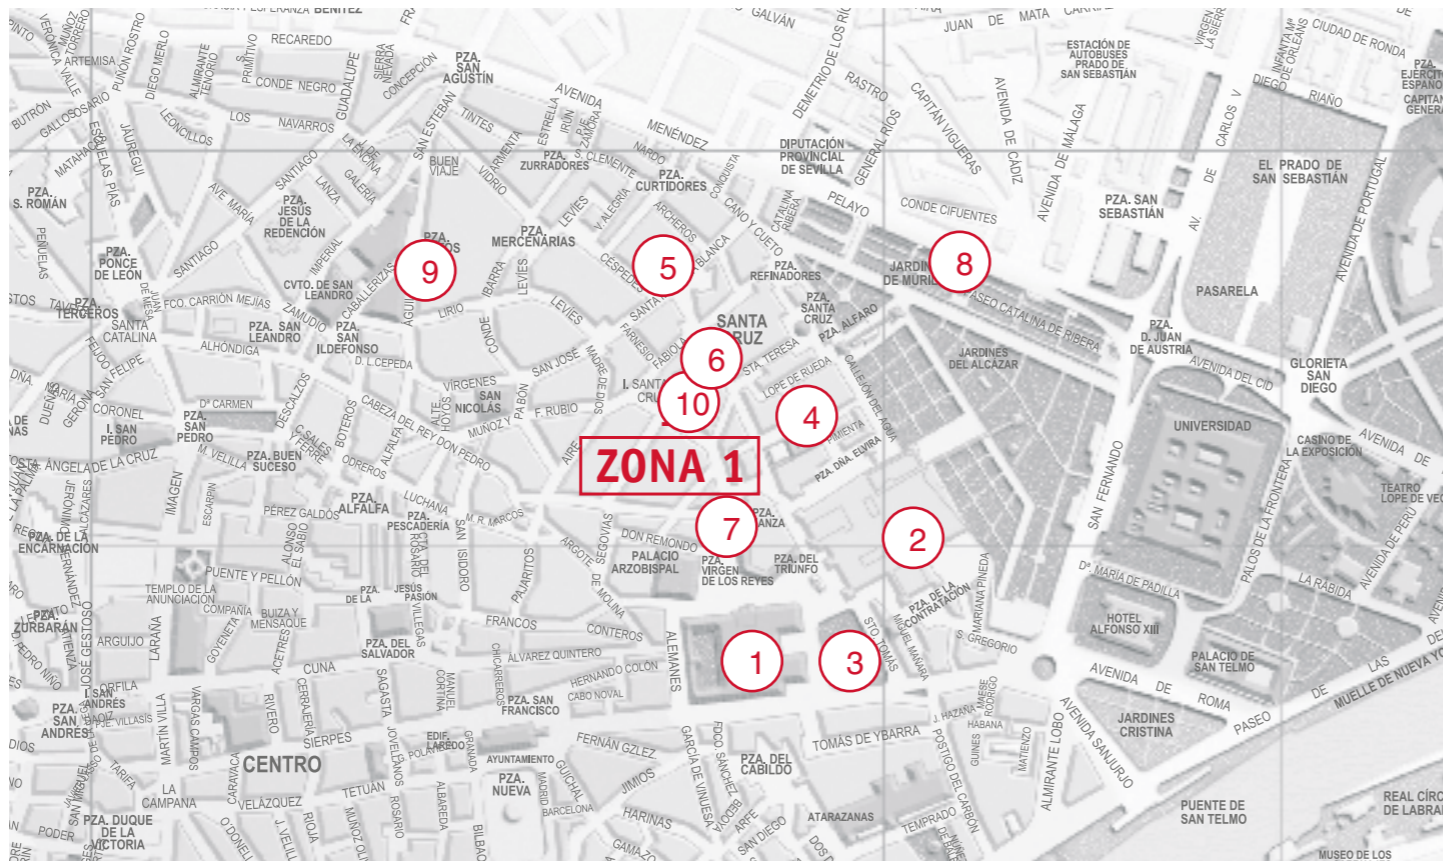

Until the beginning of the twentieth century the space occupied by the Murillo Gardens were the vegetable gardens (Huerta del Retiro) of the grounds of the Alcázar of Seville. In 1911 King Alfonso XIII gave this land to the city.

The municipal architect Juan Talavera y Heredia was entrusted with designing the structure of the walkways and gazebos of these gardens, and this is why they started to be called the “Talavera gardens”.

In 1918 José Laguillo, director of the newspaper El Liberal, proposed the change of name, dedicating the gardens to the painter Bartolomé Esteban Murillo.

The Church of the Saviour (Iglesia del Salvador), is the second most important church in the city after the Cathedral. It is located on the site of the ancient Roman Forum, where the largest mosque in the Caliphate era was later built in the ninth century. The present church is a seventeenth century creation in Baroque style. The interior houses two works of art of sevillano imagery, the crucifixion by Juan de Mesa (Cristo del Amor / Christ of Love) and the Cristo de Pasión / Christ of Passion, by Martínez Montañés, which is carried in procession during Easter Week.

Las Dueñas Palace.

Seville residence of the House of Alba. Its style ranges from the Gothic-Mudéjar to the Renaissance, containing examples and details with sevillano touches on its bricks, roof tiles, tiles, whitewash and ceramics. It has a typical Andalusian courtyard. One of the main attractions of the Las Dueñas Palace is the important artistic and decorative collection it contains, which amounts to 1,425 pieces, including works of art, furniture and other antiques.

In the nineteenth century, Dueñas was turned into apartments. Interestingly, one of the tenants, and manager of the Palacio in 1875, was Antonio Machado Álvarez, father of the famous poet Antonio Machado. Machado evokes the first eight years of his life, lived in Dueñas, in some well-known verses.

Numerous celebrities have visited the Palacio, including the composer Cole Porter, the musician Arthur Rubinstein, Jackie Kennedy, Prince Rainier III of Monaco and his wife Grace Kelly.

María Luisa Park.

With an area of 340,000 m², in addition to its great botanical value due to the different plant species living in it, this park has an extraordinary historical interest. It was the headquarters of the Latin American Exhibition of 1929, and two beautiful squares in regionalist style were built for this: the Plaza de España, emblematic monument of the city, made of brick and beautiful ceramic panels, and the Plaza de América, where you'll find two museums: the Archaeological Museum (Museo Arqueológico) displays important archaeological evidence, including the Tesoro del Carambolo, treasure from the Tartessian era; and the Museum of Arts and Traditions (Museo de Artes y Costumbres Populares), which houses ethnographic collections.

Located in the Plaza de España, with its entrance next to the Puerta de Aragón, is the Regional Military Museum (Museo Militar Regional), which inherited much of the collection of Seville's former Maestranza de Artillería.

In the avenues adjacent to the park, you can see some of the pavilions of the countries participating in this exhibition, including those of Argentina, Guatemala, Brazil, Colombia, Mexico, Morocco, the United States, Peru, Chile, Uruguay and Portugal, as well as the buildings that formed the Seville pavilion: the Casino de la Exposición and the Lope de Vega Theatre.

La Cartuja Monastery and Contemporary Art Andalusian Centre.

In 1400 the La Cartuja Monastery (Monasterio de la Cartuja) in honour of Santa María de las Cuevas was founded. The body of Christopher Columbus was buried in the monastery for about 30 years, because its monks welcomed him and helped in the preparation of his trip. After the Confiscation of Mendizábal in 1835, the building lost its religious character and was sold to the English industrialist Charles Pickman who established a pottery and porcelain factory. Because of this new industrial use, stoves and fireplaces were installed. During Expo92, it was used as the Royal Pavilion. It currently houses the Centro Andaluz de Arte Contemporáneo.

GASTRONOMY

/ RANGE OF

Gastronomy is one of the main attractions of Seville. Of great richness and variety, you can taste dishes of traditional cuisine and innovative recipes in the city's many bars and restaurants.

The tapa is undoubtedly its hallmark. In addition to the most typical, such as spinach with chickpeas, fried fish, cod pavía, carrillada, potato salad, menudo, snails or montadito "pringá", each establishment offers its own specialties and all the time it is possible to find more elaborate and creative tapas: tuna tartare, marinated sardines on seed bread with tomato compote, cod confit with black linguini, porcini carpaccio, mango gazpacho with sautéed prawns, squid with migas and herring roe.

A characteristic of the city, thanks to its favourable climate, is that you can enjoy the pleasant experience of outdoor dining on the terraces and outside areas in any season.

In addition to eating, Seville offers different ways of learning more about our cuisine: learn to prepare traditional dishes; follow gastronomic routes; visit the food markets with their stalls of fresh produce (fruit, vegetables, meat, fish ...), etc.

And for those with a sweet tooth, we recommend buying sweet pastries made by the nuns of the sevellano convents. Truly a delight for the palate.

SHOPPING

Shopping is another important factor to consider when choosing a holiday destination. Seville is ideal for this because it has a wide network of shopping areas, not only in the centre but also in other districts of the city (Nervión, Los Remedios).

Seville offers visitors establishments with big national and international brands in fashion, footwear, accessories, jewellery, decoration, etc., either in large stores or in specialist shops.

/ UNIQUE SHOPPING OPPORTUNITIES

Furthermore, because of its artisan tradition, you can buy typical products of high quality. For example, pottery and ceramics, the most established traditional manufactures, with a variety of products and styles. Those of the Triana district are well known. For many centuries, most of the factories and artisan workshops were based here.

There is also special appeal and vitality surrounding the entire creative sector related to flamenco dresses (fashion, accessories, footwear), which offers both a wide range of traditional dresses and a growing number of designs that approach haute couture. Other craft items which should be considered include saddlery, because of the great love of horses, guitars made by skilled craftsmen, fans, lace and embroidered shawls from Manila.

Also of note is the craftsmanship surrounding the celebrations and iconographic representations of Easter Week (imagery, precious metal work, embroidery, woodwork, embossing, gold working, quilting, candle making, among other sumptuous arts). Given their expertise, many workshops receive orders from all over Spain and Latin America.

FLAMENCO

BIRTHPLACE OF THE FLAMENCO

Flamenco, a universal art, has been declared Intangible Heritage of Humanity by UNESCO. Seville has much to say about flamenco, because it is its cradle and the main source for the renowned artists who have marked its evolution and development.

In Seville, visitors can enjoy displays of this art in flamenco venues or tablaos, in flamenco clubs, and in a large number of establishments where attendees spontaneously dance and sing.

Also, the main theatres of Seville (Maestranza Theatre, Central Theatre, Lope de Vega Theatre) often offer flamenco shows of a high artistic level.

When it comes to experiencing flamenco in Seville, the key date is the Bienal de Arte Flamenco, the most important festival in the world in this cultural field. It is held in even years, from early September to early October, for five weeks. In the Bienal, the leading singers, dancers and guitar players perform in the city's main theatres and monuments (Real Alcázar, Santa Clara Monastery, San Luis Church...) See www.labienal.com

To learn about and enjoy its origins, history and evolution, nothing is better than to visit the Flamenco Dance Museum (with a very audiovisual exhibition approach), created by the renowned flamenco dancer Cristina Hoyos. www.museoflamenco.com

NIGHTLIFE

THE NIGHT / OF SEVILLE

Seville, with all of its corners and squares, marks nights of fun with a very special charm. Seville offers many leisure areas for all styles and moods, an open city whose character invites you to have fun and live intensely. The centre of Seville, the largest historic quarter in Spain, is also full of surprising nightlife spots. The visitor can discover bars that are transformed when night falls, venues that seem to appear as if by magic in the labyrinth of streets or terraces and rooftops that offer spectacular view of the city's illuminated skyline. On the shore of the Guadalquivir, both in Triana and in Arenal, you will find spaces where you can dance and be infected with the joy of Seville. The river, this guiding thread of the city, transmits a special and vibrant excitement to the nearby terraces and streets. La Alameda de Hércules is not just the oldest public garden in Europe, but is also the most well-known youth recreation area in Seville. A large pedestrian area full of bars and restaurants with different personalities, and frequented often by travellers and students from all corners of the globe. Unveiling its cosmopolitan seduction before its visitors, the Alameda is a fantastic mix of historic elements, such as its emblematic Roman columns, creative spaces, with a large number of multicultural offerings, and life, so much nightlife.

FIESTAS

SEVILLIAN
EASTER WEEK

Easter Week is one of the main festivals of Seville and is considered worldwide to be one of the most important cultural events of the commemoration of the Passion of Christ. A melting pot of rituals, arts, customs and experiences, which brings together a wide range of people from Seville and elsewhere. The sum of artistic heritage and historical tradition go hand in hand with social development and the contemporaneity of its roots in families and neighbourhoods. The celebration revolves around the 60 brotherhoods that process to the Cathedral in this season of penance; a beautiful sight. The moment of greatest expectation is in the early hours of the morning leading from Maundy Thursday into Good Friday, when the protagonists are the most popular and largest brotherhoods. Day and night, it's a feast for the senses with the smells of incense and flowers, candles, the sounds of the marches and the sacred songs ... All this is captivating for the large number of people who visit the city during Easter Week.

Each year, Easter Sunday begins the bullfighting season in the historic Plaza de la Real Maestranza de Caballería. The season then lasts until 12 October, Day of Hispanic Heritage and a national holiday. The week prior to the April Fair, and every day of the Fair, are the most important periods of the bullfighting calendar, when the most important bullfighters face the challenge of showing their art in the ring before fans from around the world.

A few weeks after Easter, Seville celebrates its other great fiesta of worldwide fame, the Feria de Abril (April Fair). An explosion of joy, where the fun never stops, it takes place next to the district of Los Remedios in a huge expanse which is preserved during the rest of the year for the assembly of the ephemeral city where the Feria lives for a week. Each day, at mid-day and in the early hours of the evening, the attractive promenade of riders and carriages takes place, full of colour and elegance. At night, with the area lit by more than 200,000 bulbs, the fiesta lasts until the small hours of the morning.

For the feria, numerous casetas - canvas tents - are put up, both public and private, where the party takes place: where people sing, dance sevillanas and enjoy the typical gastronomy. The casetas are decorated with flowers, banners and lanterns, and each year a prize is awarded to the best decorated.

In May or June, when the religious calendar marks the feast of Pentecost, 50 days after the end of Easter Week, the Romería del Rocío takes place. Famous for the great devotion that exists towards the image of the Virgen del Rocío, popularly called la Blanca Paloma (the White Dove). From the city of Seville and from the villages of Seville province, numerous brotherhoods make pilgrimages of several days to the sanctuary next to the Doñana wetlands.

It is Spain's busiest pilgrimage, with a colourful and unique atmosphere.

Another of Seville's major festivals is the Corpus Christie, a tradition and a procession celebrated since the seventeenth century. On the eve of Corpus Christie, there are streets in the centre of the city filled with rosemary and decorated with altars for the festival. The focal point of the procession is the Custodia, made by Juan de Arfe, with 300 kg of silver. On that day, and for the next eight days, you can enjoy a beautiful sevillano tradition, the Baile de los Seises, who dance and sing before the guardian angel on the Cathedral's Altar del Jubileo.

Another highlight is the Vela de Santa Ana festival held in July in Triana, across the river, one of the most unique and ancient neighbourhoods of Seville. On the Betis street, a number of casetas are set up where you can sample the cuisine. In the plaza del Altozano, the nerve centre of the neighbourhood, there are displays of music and dance, especially flamenco and sevillanas.

During the Christmas holidays in Seville there's a special animation in the air, favoured by the benign climate. Shops and streets are decorated and illuminated as befits the time of year. There are Christmas markets and many nativity scenes that are created and displayed in convents, churches, monasteries, government offices, shopping centres, etc. for the enjoyment of adults and children. You can also buy handcrafted items in the popular Feria del Belén (Bethlehem Fair).

On 4 January, the Royal Herald will walk through the city centre streets to announce the arrival of the Three Kings in Seville.

A highlight is the festival of the Three Kings and their cavalcade, which is the most eagerly awaited by children and full of joy and enthusiasm.

Seville City Council organizes a special programme so that children and adults can enjoy various activities during the Christmas holidays. To this are added the efforts of a large number of cultural, neighbourhood and business entities, which promote concerts of orchestral music, chamber music, singers, choirs, bell ringers, flamenco...

FESTIVALS

/ YEAR-ROUND CULTURAL ACTIVITY

Seville offers a thriving cultural life throughout the year and organizes more than 40 festivals. Art, opera, literature, theatre, music, film, dance, flamenco, rock, pop, hip hop, rap, comics, photography, historical heritage ... a large number of activities aimed at all audiences.

The main theatres of the city are:

The Maestranza Theatre, the largest in Andalusia, opened in 1991 for Expo92, with a full and varied programme (opera, classical music concerts of the Royal Seville Symphony Orchestra, flamenco, great singers, pop musicians or jazz artists, contemporary dance, ballet, zarzuela)

There are also several venues that offer an interesting programme for all audiences, such as the Sala Cero, Sala La Fundación, Sala El Cachorro, etc.

For lovers of contemporary and modern art, Seville has a large number of exhibition halls and art galleries. Throughout the year, these offer a wide and varied programme of exhibitions (painting, sculpture, photography) from upcoming and established artists. The Contemporary Art Andalusian Centre (Centro Andaluz de Arte Contemporáneo), located at the La Cartuja Monastery (Monasterio de la Cartuja) (www.caac.es), aims to encourage the study and promotion of international contemporary artistic creation in its most varied expressions. For this, temporary exhibitions, seminars, workshops, concerts and lectures are organized.

SPORTS

PERFECT TO PRACTICE SPORTS

Due to its excellent climate and its physical geography, Seville is an ideal place to take part in a variety of sports.

The city has two football stadiums, an Olympic stadium, a specialized high performance rowing and canoeing centre, a sports hall and the opportunity for water sports on the river.

Numerous sporting events are held in the city, one of the most important of which is the Marathon, which is one of the most important to take place in our country and is run in February. A marathon where you can enjoy one of the fastest courses in Europe, with few hills. Together with the weather in Seville at this time of year, that make this trial the ideal one where you can try to reduce your personal best. In addition, the design of a new circuit that runs through the city's most emblematic and characteristic locations, converts the more than 42 kilometres of its route into a real treat for the eyes. www.zurichmaratonsevilla.es

Other events to note are the Spain long distance rowing championship, the Spain canoeing championship, the City of Seville triathlon, the Guadalquivir Night Race, the Sevilla-Betis Regata, etc.

And football fans will have the opportunity to visit the two great stadiums of the city: Sevilla FC Stadium (www.sevilla.fc) and Real Betis Stadium (www.realbetisbalompie.es)

Lovers of golf can play the courses in the city itself and in the province of Seville, located in exceptional areas with beautiful landscapes and immersed in nature. The excellent climate allows this sport to be enjoyed during every month of the year.

IMPORTANT CELEBRATIONS

KNOW / THE MOST IMPORTANT DATES

COMMEMORATION OF THE FOURTH CENTENARY OF THE BIRTH OF THE PAINTER BARTOLOME ESTEBAN MURILLO IN SEVILLE (2017- 2018).

To celebrate the birth of Seville's great painter Bartolomé Esteban Murillo, a series of cultural activities will take place in December 2017 and throughout 2018.

Rarely have a painter and a city achieved such a degree of mutual identification as that reached by Murillo and Seville. And not just because of the incidental fact that the painter was born in the Guadalquivir's capital, but because his art sprang from the most intimate roots of local culture. Because of this, his painting enjoyed success at the time and his work received the subsequent recognition given both within Spain and by foreign publics and critics, making him an undisputed figure of international calibre.

Exhibitions, concerts, workshops, publications, Murillo itineraries through the city and restoration of some of his works are some of the activities that will be organized and which will give us the opportunity to fully explore Murillo and his work.

FIRST CIRCUMNAVIGATION OF THE WORLD.

The Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan launched the Spanish expedition that completed the first journey around the world. The expedition, consisting of five ships with 250 men on board and with Magellan in command of the fleet put to sea on 10 August 1519 from the Muelle de las Mulas in Seville.

On the death of Magellan, the expedition continued under the command of Juan Sebastián Elcano. They arrived in Spain, specifically in Seville, in 1522. Of the five ships that departed only one, the Victoria, completed the journey around the world, and only 18 sailors returned.

The Fifth Centenary of the First Circumnavigation of the World will be commemorated in 2019.
